(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Coolidge in his annual budget message laid before Congress today forecast a $373,743,714 Treasury surplus at the end of the next fiscal year and urged a program of drastic governmental economy to permit another cut in federal taxes.

"I am for economy," the President declared. "If we continue the campaign for economy, we will pave the way for further reduction in taxes."

Mr. Coolidge, however, proposed that consideration of further tax reduction legislation be deferred until the effect of the present revenue law has become more apparent.

The budget of governmental expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, transmitted by the President, totaled $3,267,556,378, a decrease of $265,532,130 below estimates for the current fiscal year. Receipts were estimated at $3,641,299,092, an increase of $10,326,796, which, with the $373,743,714 surplus estimated at the end of the current fiscal year, would bring the unusually large surplus forecast by Mr. Coolidge to $3,651,625,806.

"For those things which we are now required to do we are fast reducing our expenditures to a minimum consistent with efficient service," said the President. "We have before us an estimated surplus of $37,000,000 for the current fiscal year and $373,000,000 for the next fiscal year."

"Should we embark upon new projects involving expenditures which will prevent the accumulation of these expected surpluses, or shall we continue the campaign for economy? I am for economy."

"If we continue the campaign for economy we will pave the way for further reduction in taxes. This reduction cannot be effected immediately. Before it is undertaken we should know more definitely by actual operation what our revenues will be under our present tax law. But the knowledge of our revenue under the existing law will avail us nothing if we embark upon any new large expenditure program."

Mr. Coolidge pointed out that the actual Treasury surplus at the end of the last fiscal year was $175,727,000 higher than Treasury officials had estimated and he advanced the hope that future surpluses might exceed even the estimates he was presenting to Congress.

"The confidence of the Chief Executive and the Congress that our revenues could be safely reduced has been fully justified," said the President. "The fiscal year which ended June 30, 1924 was closed with a surplus of receipts over expenditures of $505,306,000."

"A revision of the estimate of receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, indicates today that the receipts will be $3,641,299,092 and the expenditures $3,267,556,378. This forecast a surplus of receipts over expenditures for the current fiscal year of $373,743,714. This estimate is most significant. On the one hand, we anticipate receiving this year $400,000,000 less revenue than we had last year, due principally to the reduction in taxes. On the other hand, we must provide $114,000,000 for the extraordinary increase in expenditures made necessary by the World War adjusted compensation act. Yet we are confident that this year will be closed with a surplus of more than $37,000,000. Our aim should not only to conserve this prospective surplus but to add to it."

"The $265,532,130 decrease in the 1926 budget under the 1925 budget was made up of decreased expenditures in many governmental activities which were in part counterbalanced by increases in others."

The appropriations recommended are reduced for all government departments except Post Office, Justice and Agriculture, War and Navy appropriations are decreased $29,000,000; shipping board, $35,000,000; interest on public debt, $35,000,000. The Veterans Bureau will require $79,257,000 less on account of decreases effected in salaries, compensation, medical and hospital service and hospital construction. The amount set aside for soldiers' bonus is but $50,000,000, the number of applications being much below the number expected.

NO UNCERTAINTY OR SENSATION AT PRESENT SESSION

Time Is Limited; Appropriation Bills Principal Business.

EFFORT TO ECONOMIZE

Will be President Coolidge's Principal Relationship in Congress; Extent of Insurgent Opposition Will Depend on Attitude of Democrats.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Six months of absence during which political lines have been definitely established have made the congressional heart fonder of the session which opened yesterday than was the case a year ago.

For if there is one outstanding characteristic about the meeting of Congress this time it is the lack of uncertainty or sensation. Most everyone knows what is coming and no one expects anything to happen that isn't on the program.

First of all the time of the session is fixed. It cannot go beyond the fourth of March. President Coolidge has publicly stated his policy of trying to get everything possible accomplished so as to avoid an extra session. Appropriation bills are the major task of the session. Little else is usually achieved at the short session and there are, therefore, almost no great subjects for legislation like the tariff or income tax which might mean prolonged controversy. The effort to economize is to be Mr. Coolidge's principal relationship to Congress.

International relations involve no affirmative action except a vote on the proposal to enter the International court of justice created by the League of Nations. There are still enough "irreconcilables" to talk the measure to death if it is left till the last minute and the Administration itself has shown little disposition to use its influence to force action in the past through the death of Senator Lodge. The accession of Senator Borah to the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee may mean a report from the committee and some debate before the session is ended.

The present session of Congress will give the LaFollette insurgents an opportunity to use obstructive tactics and force an extra session of Congress, but it cannot be assumed that they will adopt that policy. Insurgents usually are most active when they have just come from victories at the polls. It would gain the insurgents very little to force an extra session of Congress in April which could dispose of its work by June because the Administration would have a good working majority in the House and might be assured of enough support in the Senate to put through the bills that might have been just unopposed in March.

Just what the opposition to the Administration in Congress will do depends entirely on the Democrats. If they continue their coalition with the insurgent Republicans, this (Continued on Page Seven)

Following reorganization of the American Manganese Manufacturing Company in Philadelphia, in which the name has been changed to the Dunbar Corporation, preparations are under way to resume operations at the plant at Dunbar next spring.

Before that time the plant will be completely overhauled and put in first-class condition. It became known today, following the filing of the deed in Uniontown for the transfer of the property to a group of five Philadelphia firms.

It was also made known that the company will discontinue the manufacture of manganese iron and will devote its attention to the production of ordinary pig iron.

The deed shows that the property was sold October 31 to William F. Gies, Henry B. Wrenge, John L. Cox, Edward S. Dunn and James Mullen for $501,000.

A statement dealing with the plans of the company will be issued shortly, General Manager H. M. Marshall said.

Mrs. Frisbee Temporary Chairman.

The Connellsville Hospital Association is to have a Ladies' Auxiliary. This was decided upon at a meeting held for that purpose Monday afternoon at the Baltimore &amp; Ohio Y. M. C. A. Auditorium. The hall was filled with representative and enthusiastic women of church, club and other women's organizations of the city.

The women of Connellsville responded nobly to the appeal for the need of such an organization in Connellsville and when asked how many present wanted to join the auxiliary every one stood. The women of Connellsville are always ready to cooperate with any worthy movement which might be inaugurated. This has been proven by their valuable assistance which they have always been willing and ready to give in such cases as it is needed. The untiring work of the promoters of the movement for a ladies' auxiliary to the hospital association were not in vain and the assurance given them that when the auxiliary is organized it will be a success and will mean much towards a new hospital for Connellsville.

Mrs. Fred Frisbee was named temporary chairman and Mrs. J. French Kerr, temporary secretary. Mrs. Louis Shradlow had charge of the registration and approximately 200 women attended. Following the addresses a motion was made by Dr. Katharine Wakefield that Mrs. Frisbee be empowered to name a committee to name candidates to be elected at a meeting to be held next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Kiwanis Club rooms of the Carnegie Free Library. The committee, composed of Mrs. W. J. Bailey, chairman, Mrs. John P. Torrence, Mrs. William F. Soisson, Mrs. A. L. Daniels, Mrs. Frank W. Wright, Mrs. Paul B. Dick, Mrs. J. L. Krapp and Miss Harriet Clark is meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Frisbee to consider a list of candidates.

Every woman of Connellsville who is interested in the formation of the auxiliary is urged to attend the meeting next Monday afternoon at which time the organization will be effected.

Dr. W. J. Bailey, a member of the board of trustees of the Connellsville State Hospital, and who has been closely associated with the institution because of his surgical work, was one of the principal speakers of the afternoon and at the conclusion of his talk, which was a fine one, every woman present was familiar with the conditions of the hospital and how badly in need Connellsville has been of a hospital to take care of its sick. The state expects every community to take care of its own sick, the speaker said. Dr. Bailey's talk was along the line of the "Relation of the Connellsville State Hospital to the Citizens of Connellsville and Community." He gave a very interesting history of the organization from the time an act was approved for providing such an institution up to the present time.

At the executive meeting, President H. J. Collett, Miss Nina Grace Smith, Mrs. Mary F. McGrath, Harry Atkinson, John H. Whorle and Principal W. E. Tietzhold of the high school were present. A general discussion of the problems confronting the association took place.

It was developed that a number portion of the association members were subscribing for the magazine. "The Sentinel" can keep you in better contact with the school and its activities than any other journal in the universe," Miss Blair said.

A general discussion on the school's alumni register took place. Principal Tietzhold gave the school's version of the files and narrated the advantages of a full, accurate register of the grads. With the completion of the files an issue of the Sentinel will be turned over to the association in which will be published a history of the graduates of the classes from 1906 to 1921.

The alumni considered purchasing a tract of land for the high school that will be used as an athletic field. The president announced that the next meeting would take place during the month of March but requested the alumni members to read The Connellsville Courier for the exact date of the meeting, which has yet to be decided upon.

of Son, Sam F. Hood, at Greensburg.*WAS HUNDRED ON JULY 31

Following Death of Charles F. Hood, With Whom He Lived, Aged Man Was Induced to Go to Westmoreland County Capital to Receive.

Daniel Hood is dead. Connellsville's grand old man, who on July 31 observed the one hundredth anniversary of his birth, reached the end of his earthly career this morning at 5 o'clock, at the home of his son, Sam F. Hood at Greensburg, where he went following the death of Charles F. Hood, also a son, with whom he had lived in the Colonial Apartments for a number of years. He passed away on the second day of the fifth month of his 101st year.

The end came as he had desired it should—peacefully. It was only a matter of the long-driven machine wearing out.

July 31 was one of the happiest days in the career of Mr. Hood who was showered with congratulations on his reaching the century mark and with wishes that he might round out more years. Fate determined that he should live just four months longer.

Daniel C. Hood was born at Chambersburg July 31, 1824. He removed with the family to Laureville, near Mount Pleasant, where he remained for eight years, at the end of which time the family moved to Connellsville. This place had since been his home, except for brief intervals of employment elsewhere.

In 1850 Mr. Hood was married to Christina Freeman, daughter of Samuel and Catherine Freeman. Of a large family born to the union but two survive: Samuel F. Hood of Greensburg, and Miss Iva Nettie Hood, at home with Mr. Hood.

In his younger days, before learning the cooper trade, which he followed much of his life, Mr. Hood was employed at various occupations. For a time he worked on the farm of the father of former Senator Clark of Montana, located near Dunbar. For a while he was in the employ of James Robinson, who ran a small distillery on the west side of the Youghiogheny River at which time Mr. Robinson's father, he made his first trip to Pittsburgh assisting Mr. Robinson to drive hogs to market. They took them down the Monongahela River to the South Side.

Leaving the employ of Mr. Robinson he learned the cooper trade with his father, Daniel Hood. For several years he was located at Freeport where he worked in a barrel factory making sugar hogsheads for the South. On his return he was made foreman of the barrel factory at the plant of A. Overholt at Broad Ford, in which position he remained for 20 years.

Thinking of the cooper trade, Mr. Hood entered the employ of the Baltimore &amp; Ohio Railroad. Although without previous experience, owing to his knowledge of machinery he was made a car inspector foreman in the upper yards. For 20 years he remained in this position, part of the time in the freight service, the remainder in the passenger service at the Baltimore &amp; Ohio station.

At the end of 20 years he was accepted on a pension. Not finding interest in his liking, Mr. Hood entered the employ of his son, Charles F. Hood, as foreman of the packing department of the Highland Lumber Chemical Manufacturing Company and continued in that position until he was 96 years old, when he laid down his hammer, never to take it up again.

Until a year ago Mr. Hood walked without a cane. He still went about his home, but with its aid. He had never before been seriously ill.

Daniel Hood Dead; Was Just Past the Hundred-Year Mark

Until two years ago, when his sight became impaired, Mr. Hood was a great reader and no one was better posted on current events. Lately, however, he was debilitated much in course with the world, either by sight or hearing, for both had failed him to a considerable extent, although he still read with the aid of glasses.

For many years he was a great reader of the Bible. For over 50 years he had been a contributing member of the First Presbyterian Church.

In politics he started out as a Whig and when the Republican party was formed joined it and remained with it. In 1901 he cast his last vote three years ago.

A prayer service will be held Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Samuel P. Hood, 167 Westmoreland avenue, Greensburg, with the pastor of the Greensburg Presbyterian Church in charge. The body will be brought to Conneltsville Thursday afternoon and removed by funeral director J. C. Sims to the First Presbyterian Church where the funeral service will be held at 3 o'clock. Rev. J. L. Proudfoot, the pastor, will officiate. The interment will be made in Hill Grove Cemetery. Pallbearers who will serve in Conneltsville are Walter W. Haines, S. R. Goldsmith, E. L. Moore, T. J. Hooper, J. M. Cecil and H. O. Keagy.

Ebony Mentioned in Bible

The deep black heartwood, which is most highly prized in a number of trees of the ebony family, is mentioned in the Bible in Ezekiel 27:15, in connection with ivory, probably on account of their value and of their contrasting colors. Ebony was once supposed to grow in the ground "without root or leaves" and it was ascribed many miraculous powers. The chief source of the ebony wood is the island of Ceylon, where huge logs of the pure heartwood are cut and hauled to the coast. For interior decorations and furniture ebony has been superseded by rosewood and mahogany, but for cabinet work it is still widely employed, being exported from Madagascar, Jamaica, India and Egypt. A species of the ebony tree which is used as a veneer also grows in the southern United States.—Washington Star.

Capture High Honors.

OTHER NEWS OF THE DAY

Special to The Courier.
VANDERBILT, Dec. 2.—"American hog raisers have established some pretty stiff litter and individual records the last few years but we expect within the next year to break all Poland China marks on the Moore farm," said C. A. Stark, superintendent of the farm of the Nellie Coal & Coke Company.

Mr. Stark is conditioning four April pigs for exhibition at Pennsylvania State Farm Products Show in Harrisburg, the week beginning January 22 and he expects to win at least two of the highest awards at the show.

During the past two years the Moore farm has specialized in pure bred Poland Chinas and at this time 176 head are being conditioned for the market and sale for breeding purposes. The farm owns Highland's Oakview "Pride," 20 months old boar that took the highest honors at the Columbus, Ohio, show and at the Michigan State Fair. At five fairs he won four firsts and five junior championships.

"We are going to enter competition with the world," Mr. Stark said. "And we have the stock here I feel will equal the best in litter records and the individual records."

Eighty head of cattle are also being conditioned for market. 35 head of young steer feeders having been added to the herd the past week. Farmer Stark takes pride in his fine horses and especially a yearling colt that weighs more than 1,200 pounds. He expects this colt to exceed 2,000 pounds at three years.

GIVING SCHOOL SPIRIT ITS BROADEST APPLICATION.

Interest in football was stimulated to a higher degree in the Connelleville and Dunbar Township High Schools during the season just closed than in any preceding year. The boosting of the local team and the remarkable demonstration of the school spirit which was exhibited by both schools at the Thanksgiving Day game, was an indication of increasing loyalty to the institutions by the students of both. In the measure to which this attitude and relation was advanced, all the expenditure of effort must be regarded as having been fully justified.

Valuable as the stimulation of interest in high school athletics has been its real worth and permanency will depend upon the willingness and determination of the students of both schools to infuse the same enthusiasm into other school relationships and activities. If the greater energy and excellence in football or other sports the chief distinction of either school, and at the expense of scholastic attainments, the larger object and purpose of a revival of interest in and loyalty to the institutions will not be realized.

In its broadest meaning school spirit comprehends the working together of the student body to achieve honors for their institution in all the varied activities. It also means that every student will have such a pride in his or her school, what it does and what it stands for, that he or she will believe it to be the best, as having the best corps of teachers, the best board of directors and much the finest body of students in the whole land.

If thoroughly infused with this spirit students will have the desire to excel individually, not alone in athletics, but in their daily work in the class room. If the school spirit is manifested in this form and to this degree the development of the institutions will be well balanced, not lopsided, and they will become increasingly efficient as agencies for the building of character and the cultivation of boys and girls for the obligations, duties and opportunities of useful citizenship. The school spirit, as students have learned its meaning and value, will merge into the community spirit of the years after school and the maximum benefits will thus be realized.

With the impetus given during the recent weeks, and culminating in the extraordinary manifestation on Thanksgiving Day, the student bodies of C. H. S. and D. T. H. S. ought now to go forward in an enthusiastic, all-together effort to make the present school year much the most fruitful in the history of their respective schools in all that pertains to well-rounded education and training of all their powers, both of mind and body.

SATISFACTION.

The purchase by the Capitan Glass Company of the real estate which was the former site of the Humber plant of the American Sheet & Tin Plate Company at South Connelleville, removes from the realm of speculation the probability that the latter will build another mill, or remove one from another location.

Such an enterprise would be a useful addition to our industries but the fact that it will not be made should not be discouraging. The Capitan Glass Company, which has acquired the land, has no immediate need of it for purposes of enlargement, but this enterprise has made such consistent progress in recent years that it will not be surprising that in the not very remote future still further additions to the plant will become necessary. Even if this does not occur for some time in the future there is satisfaction in knowing that an enterprise which is loyal to Connelleville and in sympathy with its industrial development has become owner of a tract of land which was at one time a scene of much activity but which has been allowed to remain without effort to utilize it for any purpose.

Who said this was to be a year without a winter?

What an awful price was the death from tetanus of a bright high school boy to pay for the carelessness in leaving a gun loaded even with a blank cartridge!

Although the football season is over the players will not lack opportunities to show their heroism in tackling their high school studies with the determination to make a long string of A plus goals.

What the Grange Favors and What It Opposes

The National Grange at its recent 55th annual session at Atlantic City adopted a declaration of policy which includes the following as favored by this great farmers' organization:

Equality of agriculture in legislation and government plans, also in the adjustment of tariff rates.
Cooperative marketing, with pledge to support such legislation in the coming session of Congress.
Plan for a federal commission to develop superpower.
A high export duty or an actual embargo, on raw and unfinished lumber not yet fabricated into industrial product.

Immediate completion and operation of Muscle Shoals by the government, or its lease on such terms as will insure the production of fertilizer for the farmers at cost, but strictly under the terms of the water power act.

Reorganization of the postal service and adjustment of salaries and administrative methods to increase the efficiency of the department.
Closer supervision of movie picture lines and rigid clean-up of objectionable features.

Increased appropriations and of forts to stamp out bovine tuberculosis, in the interests of the public health.

Energetic efforts and liberal state and federal appropriations to check the spread of the European corn-borer.

Full endorsement of the income tax principle, federal and state.
A well-defined policy by the United States Department of Agriculture directed towards economic adjustments, rather than increased production, as the immediate need of the American farmer.

Continuation of the hamigration restrictive laws enacted the past year and objection to any letting-down of the bars on the "ineligible alien" clause, or otherwise permitting the admission of the yellow races.

A non-partisan ballot in municipal elections.
Support of the federal farm loan act and its defense against legislation that would have a tendency to interfere with the provisions of the act or to compel increased interest charges to farmers.

Rigid enforcement of all laws, federal and state, and positive opposition to any weakening of the Volstead Act for enforcement of national prohibition.

Full publicity for income tax returns.

More thoroughly-trained teachers for rural schools, plain practical and serviceable rural school buildings, with proper sanitary equipment, but without extravagant expenditure of funds; ample playgrounds to be provided in all plans for new school buildings in the open country.

Endorsement of vocational training and especially increased instruction in agriculture; health inspection work in the public schools with proper teaching in physiology and hygiene; stress the necessity for making the spirit of rural school teaching point towards country life instead of away from it.

Urging the Department of Agriculture at Washington to use its utmost energies towards balancing production with consumption in future agricultural planning.

Such reorganization of the Railroad Labor Board as shall give the public larger instead of reduced representation.

The matters and things to which the Grange went on record as being opposed are as follows:

Any shifting of burdens or other activities from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Commerce.

The creation of any new bureau or departments in federal or state administration.

Federal or state aid for reclamation, irrigation and reclamation projects, until such time as it is clearly apparent that the available agricultural acreage of the country must be increased.

Daylight-saving, or any other time system that shall interfere with the universal operation of standard time in all states and parts of states.

All reductions in tariff rates on dairy products, which rates are declared already so low American dairymen are suffering seriously from foreign competition.

The use of milk or any milk products in combination with vegetable oils to manufacture "milkation butter."

Any universal school centralization or consolidation policy, on the ground that school questions are purely local in their nature.

IT'S ALL IN THIS.

It's all in this, a kid's deed,
A helping hand to an old man,
A simple act, a noble deed,
And thus another "kind" is made.
Another "kind" of love, to tell,
To think of you and me, so well.

It's all in this, a boy's deed,
Two big to do an action mean,
Too wise to guess the bitter taste
Of narrowness, with its power, a sting.
Respect for each man's soul by trade,
By this good friends are always made.

Izaak Walton League Raising Fund to Buy Sanctuaries for Elk

Special to The Courier.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Thousands of elk are starving in Jackson Hole, Wyoming, according to a statement issued today by the Izaak Walton League of America, national organization of sportsmen, in opening a campaign to raise $100,000 by public subscription with which to buy additional feeding grounds for these animals.

"The elk, it was explained at national headquarters of the league here, come down out of the mountains in vast herds at the beginning of winter to feed on the valley grasses, following their natural custom. But the valley pastures have been grazed bare by cattle and the elk starve in great numbers."

"The elk faces extinction as a result, according to Will H. Dill, president of the organization."

"The last word of the elk in America is approaching a tragic end," said Mr. Dill. "and unless these cattle ranges are purchased immediately this great American animal will follow the bison to oblivion."

The cattlemen are willing to sell out since the elk ranges never have been successful as cattle ranges, he said.

The Walton League has asked the public to purchase these lands as a fitting memorial to the Old West, and as a permanent sanctuary for the elk. All funds, Mr. Dill said, will go directly to the purchase of the lands, all administrative expense being carried by the league.

Public contributions are being accepted at the national headquarters of the Walton League, 538 Lake Shore Drive, this city. The movement is national in scope, being carried on by chapters of the Walton League in all parts of America, Mr. Dill said.

Chinese Influence as Strong as Directoire

The Chinese influence is perhaps as strong as the directoire, and is particularly to be noticed in models of afternoon dresses, says a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star. They have very often, long, straight tunics split at the sides, or flat panels in front or at the back forming tunics. They are embroidered with gold or some vivid color and trimmed with gold tassels hanging from belts, pockets, sleeves or from the ends of a scarf.

The coats are very straight, in black tulle, tulle or satin; fewer in some woolen materials, with fur collars, cuffs and borders. Sometimes the coat has a yoke at the back and the back mounted with gathers; this feature is more characteristic of evening coats. Many scarf collars have fur borders; they are sometimes very wide and long, particularly in evening coats. The latter are in rich brocades, laces, pannes and cut velvet. A very rich model was a coat in gold lame with a round yoke, a very long and full cape bordered with gray fur and entirely lined with green panne.

Very smart three-piece costumes and tailor-made with long, straight jackets. They are in cotton, reps and cloth or some woolen material. A model in navy blue reps has trimmings of red cloth or silk.

Tailor-mades are trimmed with "petates," or tabs forming fastenings, pockets and buttons. The collars are either straight or prolonged in scarfs. A very smart model was a tailor-made in black ottoman with a very long jacket fastened with three buttons on the top and three at the bottom. A narrow border of white rabbit showed all round.

New Hats of Season to Take Place of Cloche

The most significant millinery note of the season is a negative manifestation—the passing of the cloche. The cloche was not displaced from first place because of the popularity of any other single style—it was displaced from its high throne because even the most attractive styles must eventually succumb to the changing dictates of the mode. In its stead there has appeared a diverse assortment of new shapes, usually larger, higher crowned and more mature than the typical models of recent seasons.

The directoire high crown with an accompanying small brim is one of the outstanding millinery types of the present season. Equally popular are the modified square crown, which is combined with the upturned or mesh-round brim, and the deep, round crowns which also appear in conjunction with these same brims. There are also the draped turbans—rapidly gaining in popularity—the coronet, pagoda shapes, berets, small helmets, Napoleonic period styles and the large conical and conical hats. The typical fall hat is deeper than its predecessor, a more formal type, and is not confined to any definite class, although there is a distinct trend toward the larger chapans.

The high crown, is not a universal vogue as yet and it will probably require another season before the mode is ready to accept it. The modified crown, not as high as the directoire, and less imposing, is the most popular type of the current season.

Jabot Fashioned From Lace, White or Cream

The jabot has become ubiquitous. At first it was a mere accessory to the blouse or dress or jacket suit—bit of neckwear, in fact. Now it has become the decorative feature par excellence of the dress or gown.

Fashioned from lace in white or cream, in beige or even, the jabot mends down the front or up the side of the neck or tunic, or reaching to itself all attention, necessarily that according to the button unbuttoning it in rows as long as its fancifully arranged.

Monkey and Ermine

In emphasizing the vogue for combinations of black and white, nothing more original has been shown than a evening coat of black velvet bordered with a wide band of ermine hands by a fringe of monkey skin. A similar trimming appears on the collar and sleeves.

Used Kollogg's Bran 2 months—constipation gone after suffering 3 years

Three years of suffering with constipation. What happiness was his when Kollogg's Bran, cooked and kneaded, restored his health. But read his letter.

"Dear Sirs: This is what I think of your bran. I would not be without it for anything in the world. For three years I used all kinds of medicines for constipation, and not only temporary relief. I was advised by a doctor to use Kollogg's Bran, and after I began using it I don't have to take pills or anything else. I have used it two months, and my constipation has left me. I feel better, now than I have for three years."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kollogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kollogg's Bran brings results because it is ALL bran. You can't get constipation with halfway preparations—with bran which are only part bran. It takes ALL bran to be 100 per cent effective.

Because Kollogg's Bran is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It is naturally just as nature acts. It stimulates the intestine and makes it function regularly. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your money will refund your money.

Kollogg's Bran has a delicious nut-like flavor. Quite different from ordinary, unpalatable bran. You will like it as a cereal, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the recipes given on every package.

Get two tablespoons of Kollogg's Bran every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. Made in Battle Creek, Sold by all grocers.

Large Gathering of Church Members and Friends at Reception for Family.

WILL LEAVE THURSDAY

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Dec. 2—About 150 persons gathered at the Y. M. C. A. last evening to attend the farewell reception given by members of the Christian Church and friends for the retiring pastor, Rev. Paul S. Wight, and his family. The Wights will leave Thursday for Buffalo, N. Y., where Rev. Wight has been called as pastor of the Glenwood Avenue Church of Christ.

Ministers of the town joined with the people of the church and community in expressions of regret at the departure of the Wights, who have been most active during their stay here. After the program lunch was served by women of the church.

A feature of the evening was music by the Junior Republican Ukulele Girls of Conneltsville, who played and sang. The girls were in charge of Mrs. William H. Showman of that place. In addition to the chorus numbers by the club there were a duet by O. H. Wirsing, mandolin, and Warren Halberstam, banjo, and members of the club, and a vocal solo by Miss Thelma Ferguson. ## Rebellious Youth— Today it's a wise Parent who knows his own Child Judge Lindsey speeded up. Youth has kept pace. You and your generation have stood still. Youth is in the saddle, but it has not yet learned to control its fiery steed. Youth, intoxicated with the heady wine of independence, is riding to a fall that will shake this nation to its very foundations if it is not checked in time.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey Tells You the Facts

Denver is a typical American city. What is going on among the youth of Denver is going on in exactly the same degree right here at home.

Already the revolt of youth in Denver which is like the revolt of youth everywhere, threatens change in our social and family life. The exact details of the manner in which they are questioning the institution of marriage and our social code may surprise you but you cannot doubt their truth.

They come from no less an authority than Judge Ben B. Lindsey, who knows what he is talking about.

Judge Lindsey, for twenty-five years Judge of the Juvenile Court of Denver, Colo., says, "I am in constant confidential touch with scores of boys and girls of high school age; they tell me things; and they don't stop with themselves. From an ordinary case, selected at random, I can uncover a thousand."

Why Children Fear to Tell Their Parents

A sweet and beautiful high school girl from one of Denver's most respected families summed up the situation thus: "You see, Judge," she said, after freely admitting acts that would have sent her parents into nervous breakdown, "they don't know much about us. They think they do, but they don't, and it wouldn't do to tell them! I wouldn't have them know for the world what I have been telling you, because all the kids would get expelled!"

Facts from Actual Cases

He deals in facts, facts and more facts. He quotes real cases. You cannot doubt the unbelievable things he shows you because the proof is there too plain, too positive to be denied.

But he goes further. He does more than point a terrible picture. He points out the remedy—explains the methods that he himself has developed during twenty-five years of dealing with rebellious youth, methods that have been gloriously successful.

As a parent, a teacher, a responsible citizen, you owe it to yourself, to your children, to posterity, to read "The Revolt of Modern Youth" by Judge Ben B. Lindsey.

It is the privilege of Physical Culture to place Judge B. Lindsey's great series before you—the hand writing on the wall that will warn a nation. "The Revolt of Modern Youth" begins in the December issue now on the newsstands.

Timely Reminders From

Horses Need Exercise—Horses need air and action. With the approach of cold weather they will keep healthier if they are exercised every day by driving or by being allowed to run in the yard or pasture.

Prune Roses Now—Rose bushes can be pruned now. The amount of pruning necessary varies with different kinds. A good general rule to follow permits pruning to within eight inches of last year's growth, and then in the spring nipping off about two inches of the tip. This leaves about six inches of the previous year's growth to develop.

Plan for Better Poultry—Poultrymen attempting to better the quality of stock by careful selection and breeding should pay some attention at this time to the selection of breeders for next spring. Careful study of birds and their records before selection of breeding stock will be rewarded by the better chicks next spring.

Better Get Ready—Just one week is left in which to finish up the odd jobs around the orchard and garden before leaving to attend the "Horticulture Week" at State College, December 5 to 13.

They Like It—Hot soup or a hot drink served at school makes the cold lunch carried in the dinner pail more palatable and nourishing for little Johnny and Mary during cold winter days. It is your school lunch the "Hot Lunch group."

"Keep the Doctor Away"—When the long winter nights come, a few good eating apples and a book or paper help pass away the time. If properly stored the apples will be waiting for you in summer.

Seventy-Two Candidates Report at High School; Whole Outfit Is Green

Coach Battle Will Start Weeding Out Process at Once; Boys Interested.

FEW VETERANS REMAIN

Seventy-two candidates for positions on the Connelville High School basketball team reported to Coach Battle on the gymnasium floor yesterday afternoon. A number of early season exercises were given and the coach will begin to weed out his organization at once. Just what Connelville will have in the basketball line is something not to be determined by a glance, but the coach has lots of material to work with. It is as deeply interested as the boys and some earnest work may bring unexpected results. Last season the Cokers started out with only two really seasoned men—Lafitte and Captain Welsh. This year the best available from the squad left over are Captain O'Donnell and VanGorder. There are others who may flash brilliantly before the season ends.

INTER-CITY DUCK LEAGUE OPENED; NEXT GAME DEC. 4

Vanderbilt and Perryopolis had little difficulty in coping three consecutive games from their opponents last evening in the inaugural games of the Inter-City Bowling League, better known as the V-D-P-C circuit. The Connelville entry, the Manhattan Five, fell victim to the former, while Dickerson Run was unable to check the Perry team. For some reason the Manhattan team was unable to present its most formidable quintet.

The next games billed are for Thursday, December 4, when the Dickerson Run team will entertain the Vanderbilt contingent and Connelville will play host to Perryopolis.

Vanderbilt went on a "duckpin spree" in trouncing the Manhattan contingent. Nick Cavalcante had high total for three games with 501 and high single game with 177. The entire team rolled 2,008.

West Penn Noses Out Mt. Pleasant By Scant Margin

The West Penn bowling team defeated Mount Pleasant by four pins last night after the latter team had won the first game by a margin of 101 pins. Miller had high single game score of 186 and Canoe had high total score with 423.

COUNTY BASKETBALL LEAGUE PROGRESSES; MAY OPEN UP SOON

At a meeting of the County Basketball League, held last night in Uniontown further progress towards its opening was made. It is possible the league will get under way by December 15. Teams having floors available for workouts now are instructed to get down to practice to have their combinations working smoothly.

A two-part playing season has been practically agreed upon. This will create more interest among the clubs and also among the fans. Teams will be limited to a roll of 10 players in order that one outfit may not gobble up all the best material.

A tentative list of officers was named and players' contracts were discussed.

The story is as unusual as the star, which plays the title role of the picture. It starts out with the first quarrel of a timid little man and his bride. "Freddie" goes off a huff to the theatre seeking to drown his woes in entertainment. Before the evening is over he is nearly drowned in a roaring flood after having spent twelve agonizing hours as guard of the trained seal that belongs to the lovely "Living Venus" with whom he unwittingly has become entangled. One funny situation builds into another with rapid fire hilarity.

The BLUE CIRCLE

BY Elizabeth Jordan
COPYRIGHT BY THE CENTURY CO.

He was sitting up again, with unswept eyes upon that grimace. And now, at last, he saw something it

It Was a Hand and Arm Very Large and Dark.

was a hand and arm, very large and dark. The hand clutched avidly but futilely at the top of the transom, in an apparent effort to release the latch.
But the latch was on Renshaw's side.
The transom did not open. For an instant the clutched hand moved and even seemed to beckon.
Then it disappeared, and simultaneously there was again the sound of a heavy fall, this time just outside the door. That was followed by the travelling sound, growing fainter by degrees, and then by silence.

Renshaw motioned like lips. The situation was simply incredible, but his mind worked on it with crystalline briskness.
Seemingly the thing, whatever it was, fell out of some room into the hall. Yet no animal or human being heavy enough to make that noise in dropping could possibly crawl through a transom. Nevertheless, the thing had apparently made an effort to crawl through his transom. Also it had made an effort to open his door.
That seemed sufficient proof that the thing itself had not locked his door.
Some one else had done so. Who?
Presumably the door had been locked to guard him. Why, and from what?
And if he had to be guarded from one animal or human, why the devil didn't Campbell tell him so?
Renshaw, son of his mother to these questions, if such they occurred him, replied to a degree that forbade sleep for a long time he brooded upon them, while renewed silence settled over the house. Then he rose and went to the door. Instantly the knob yielded to his hand. The door swung back. No and it was the reassuring sweep of the long, black, empty hall; and around him folded the peaceful sil-lence of a soundly sleeping household.

Chapter V

Renshaw Asks a Question.

Renshaw awoke, the next morning,
wearing a certain line of determination about his jaws and nursing a valiant resolve to keep steady. He had slept well, when he was left to sleep, but he did not enjoy his night's experience in retrospect any more than he had enjoyed it at the time. He leathered being locked in his room. And he decided that the later experience at least should not happen to him again.

He was going to town that morning.
He would equip himself while there with a little set of tools that would open any locked door with reasonable promptness. Also, he would get a flashlight, a revolver, and a few other trifles that seemed to fit neatly into his new environment.

The alertness of his mind in working out these plans vaguely gratified him, until he began to think about it.
Then the old sense of lethargy crept into his consciousness, combined with the self-pity whose twin was self-contempt. He did not want to think about all these complications. He wanted peace and a clean-cut job.
But, since the undesired elements were forcing themselves into the situation, he forced his will to the task of meeting them. He considered the notion of reporting the night episode to Campbell, and promptly decided against it. He had already had his raining on the point.

Suddenly he remembered the blue circle and began somewhat vaguely to look about his room. That circle mystery, at least, should be easy to clear up. But before he had inspected more than a few objects on his high-boy, all of which seemed incapable of "chance" reflection, a door opened up on the door was followed by the entrance of Jenks, carrying an armful of linen and bath towels.

"I observed you were short of these, sir," he said as he turned toward the bathroom. "Amie is inclined to be careful. You will always find fresh linen in the hall closet at the left of the door."

"THE RAGGED EDGE"

up on your geography. By the way, if you have a baby boy to name you might get a few suggestions from this. Notice the all-over interlock.

your door as you go out."

Renshaw thanked him absently. He was standing before a mirror, and he glanced he caught in the reflected eyes of the better a closely watchful expression. But Jenks passed into the bathroom. The secretary slipped into his coat, gave the back of his black head a final and formal check, and then he emerged from the bathroom. Jenks emerged from the bathroom.

"I hope you slept well, sir," he politely observed.
Renshaw nodded; then, on a sudden impulse, checked his stride.
"Jenks," he said slowly, "you were good enough to warn me that I might hear some unusual sounds in this house."
"Yes, sir."
Jenks, standing still, the forgotten towels still over his arm, had listened with deferential interest. Now he dropped his eyes, but not before Renshaw had seen the flash in them.

"Do you mind telling me just what you meant by that warning?—for of course you intended it as a warning."
"I took a liberty in speaking of the matter at all, sir. I hope you will forget it."
"How the deuce can I forget it?" demanded Renshaw irritably. "Which I kept awake by the infernal noise? What's the meaning of that, anyway? That's what I want to know."
The mask of unquestioning servitude dropped from the face of Jenks. For the first time, he met the other man's eyes.

"You heard noises last night," he asked quickly. "What were they?"
"That's what I'm asking you."
The glance of Jenks shifted again. "I can't say, sir," he said with a swift return to his formal manner. "I ought not to have mentioned the matter at all. I did it because I thought it might all be a bit unsettling to a stranger."
"The matter is of no importance," Renshaw said abruptly, and went down to breakfast.

The ladies, Renshaw learned, had breakfast in their respective rooms. When he had finished his meal and smoked a leisurely cigar, he went to the study. It was empty, but a fire burned on the hearth, and Renshaw sank into an easy chair before it with a renewed sense that his house had fallen in pleasant places. The study was so comfortable and so normal, except that north room of his and the corridor leading to it. He recalled a casual remark of Campbell: "Mr. Renshaw will up that room, unless after he has tried it, he prefers another."

What did Campbell mean by that? Surely it meant that Campbell knew about the noises and realized that a stranger might find them disconcerting, in put the stranger's impressions aside.

The Men That Industry Needs

What kind of training does industry expect from men needed for executive, administrative and technical positions?

The National Industrial Conference held at New York has concluded its important task of investigating the needs of basic industries of the country, how engineering education can best be adjusted to meet industrial needs.

The board estimates that American industry may need 100,000 more persons for this type of responsible position in 1930 than it had in 1920. This is based on the increasing in administrative, supervisory and technical experts to the total number gainfully employed in industry as detailed in the United States Census of Occupations.

The board has selected 10 specific study 10 or 12 major branches of American industry in order to find out what technical men are now in it, what positions they occupy and what are their activities. What further opportunities the industry offers for additional employment of technically trained men and in what respect the technical colleges may adapt their programs to the practical requirements of industry. The situation in each industry is being studied separately.

The board has now completed the first two of the series of investigations covering the rubber and the pulp and paper industries. Seventy-five companies, equipped with the board, covering 113 plants, over 100,000 employees and representing more than 30 per cent of the rubber industry. The board finds that of the total number of employees, over 10 per cent occupy important positions and that of these more than 25 per cent are college graduates.

In the paper and pulp industry in which 150 companies representing over 35,000 employees, collaborated with the board it is revealed that a little more than even per cent of the total employed held executive or other important position and that of these 22 per cent were college graduates. 13 per cent held technical positions.

One of the problems existing in adapting college graduates to the responsible positions in industry is the difficulty of obtaining practical experience in line with their education. Several possible ways of accomplishing such an end are being studied at length in the reports such as summer internships and the cooperative college course and it was found that very few of the companies offer such opportunities to technical college men.

The problem of selection of employment by the college graduates and of men for employment by the companies was also studied. This showed that quite a considerable number of men about 50 per cent of the total had made a conscious choice of the rubber industry as a field for employment. On the other hand, for the greatest number of college men reported entered the paper industry because of secondary reasons rather than because of any particular interest in or unusual ability for it. In both instances, the companies have so far developed very little in the way of systematic method or in the way of selection of technically trained men for employment and development in the industry.

When the entire series is completed, the findings will be analyzed and compared and published by the board in a composite report on "Technical Education and American Industry." In that report, specific points will be discussed at length and complete sections devoted to each of the industries previously summarized.

Smoke Nuisance, Rock Dusting To Be Studied

That the smoke nuisance in cities may be eliminated is a possibility of the near future if experiments to be conducted this year at Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh are successful. According to an announcement already have been given here in by the Department of Metallurgical and Mining Engineering and the United States Bureau of Mines to study the utilization of the products of low temperature carbonization of coal with particular reference to the economic production of smokeless fuel.

The purpose of the study is to devise some means economical feasible for abatement of the smoke nuisance in cities.

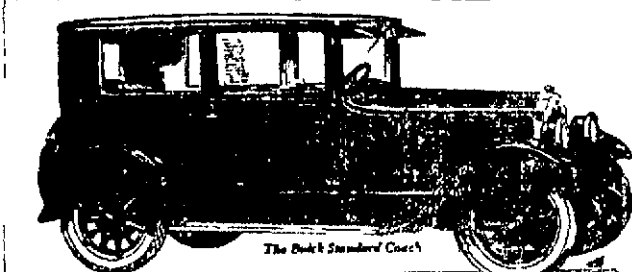

The growing demand for some peaceful means of combating the smoke nuisance in such cities is given as the reason for the intended study by the Carnegie Tech authorities. Furthermore, according to the announcement, it has long been thought that a smokeless fuel might be prepared by low temperature carbonization of coal which would solve the problem.

That householders rather than industrial plants in such cities are "responsible" for the smoke nuisance, is an interesting statement in connection with the proposed study. "It is pretty generally recognized," says the announcement, that the smoke condition of our cities is largely due to the domestic consumption of soft coal. This is due to the fact that soft coal is burned in domestic heating appliances with low efficiency, it being impossible to formulate rules for combustion that will be generally observed by householders. In present research will have for its object primarily the investigation of the economic feasibility of applying low temperature carbonization in the cities.

In attacking the problem authorities at the Institute and the Bureau of Mines intend to study the yields and qualities of the distillation products at a few typical plants in the laboratories of the Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh, and to investigate the cost of plant fabrication and revenue to be derived by sale of products in the vicinity of Pittsburgh Salt Lake City and Orderville. The distillation method to be used has already been worked out on a laboratory scale large enough to yield the data required.

Another investigation that may result, indirectly at least, in the saving of thousands of lives of coal miners from explosion disasters will also be made this year at Carnegie Institute in cooperation with the Bureau of Mines and an advisory board of coal-mining operators and engineers. This problem is a study of methods and costs of rock dusting in coal mines, rock dusting having become recognized in this country as being the most practical prevent
